SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. For Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Chronic Diarrhœa, Jaundice, Impurity of the Blood, Fever and Ague, Malaria, and all Diseases caused by Derangement of Liver, Bowels and Kidneys.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER. Bad Breath; Pain in the Side, sometimes the pain is felt under the Shoulder-blade, mistaken for Rheumatism; general loss of appetite; Bowels generally costive, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain, is dull and heavy, with considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of leaving undone something which ought to have been done; a slight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for consumption; the patient complains of weariness and debility; nervous, easily startled; feet cold or burning, sometimes a prickly sensation of the skin exists; spirits are low and despondent, and, although satisfied that exercise would be beneficial, yet one can hardly summon up fortitude to try it—in fact, distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred when but few of them existed, yet examination after death has shown the Liver to have been extensively deranged.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Traveling or Living in Unhealthy Localities, by taking a dose occasionally to keep the Liver in healthy action, will avoid all Malaria, Bilious attacks, Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Depression of Spirits, etc. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage.

If You have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals, or sleepless at night, take a dose and you will be relieved.

Time and Doctors' Bills will be saved by always keeping the Regulator in the House!

For, whatever the ailment may be, a thoroughly safe purgative, alterative and tonic can never be out of place. The remedy is harmless and does not interfere with business or pleasure.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE, And has all the power and efficacy of Calomel or Quinine, without any of the injurious after effects.

A Governor's Testimony. Simmons Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science. J. GILL SHORTER, Governor of Ala.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Ga., says: Have derived some benefit from the use of Simmons Liver Regulator, and wish to give it a further trial.

"The only Thing that never fails to Relieve."—I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Debility, but never have found anything to benefit me to the extent Simmons Liver Regulator has. I sent from Minnesota to Georgia for it, and would send further for such a medicine, and would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve. P. M. JARNEY, Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. T. W. Mason says: From actual experience in the use of Simmons Liver Regulator in my practice I have been and am satisfied to use and prescribe it as a purgative medicine.

MORTIMER F. ELLIOT.

MORTIMER F. ELLIOT.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESSMAN AT-LARGE.

Hon. Mortimer F. Elliot is a descendant of one of the pioneer and staunch Democratic families of Tioga county. He is the only son of Colonel Nathaniel A. Elliot, who was elected by the Democrats a member of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania and served with credit in the year 1848. Mortimer was born in the township of Charleston, in the village of Cherry Flats, Tioga county, Pa., September 24th, 1842, and is therefore in the fortieth year of his age. He was raised upon a farm and educated in the common schools of his native township and at Alfred University, Alfred, Alleghe ny county, N. Y. The work upon the farm, the pure mountain air, coupled with good habits, gave him a strong and sturdy constitution, a clear head and vigorous mind. He studied law with Hon. Stephen F. Wilson, and was admitted to practice at the Tioga county bar in the year 1864.

At that time the bar of Tioga county was distinguished for its able practitioners, among whom were Hon. Henry Sherwood, Hon. H. W. Williams, Hon. Stephen F. Wilson, Hon. John W. Guernsey, Hon. B. B. Strang, Hon. P. E. Smith, Hon. C. H. Seymour, and it would seem that there was no room for a young lawyer, or no lucrative practice at his command. He however opened an office at Wellsboro, facing the public square, among these distinguished men, and began the practice of his chosen profession. His clients were few at first, but they increased rapidly as his course and manner of trying suits became known. His knowledge of law, his close application to business entrusted to him and his power as an advocate before a jury, won the confidence of the people and gave him a high standing at the bar, and in the year 1870 he was the Democratic candidate for president judge of the 4th judicial district, composed of the counties of Tioga, Potter, McKean and Cameron, and although the district was largely Republican, he came near to gaining an election, reducing the majority several thousand votes.

In 1873 he was elected to the Constitutional Convention and served with distinction, being the choice of the young and progressive Democracy of his district. Amid the pressing cares of a large and extensive practice at the several courts in Northern Pennsylvania, the Supreme Court of the State, and the United States District and Circuit Courts, he has always cheerfully responded to the call of the public either in Northern Pennsylvania or Southern New York, and has done yeoman and distinguished service upon the stump.

At a great mass meeting of the Democracy at Elmira, when Gen. McClellan was present, Elliot was literally carried upon the shoulders of his auditors, having made a speech unexampled for argument, logic and eloquence in the history of that campaign. At the great Hancock meeting at Corning, N. Y., in Octobar, 1880, where Col. John W. Forney, Hon. Darius A. Ogden and others spoke, Mr. Elliot made the speech of the occasion. He is the pride of the young Democracy, and has been justly called "The Little Giant of the North." As a lawyer he is able and learned, and as an advocate he has no superior in the northern portion of the State. He is a gentleman highly respected by all parties for his sterling integrity, his legal and forensic attainments, and in his election the people of the State at large may rest assured that they will have a representative honest, capable and fearless, one who knows the right and dare maintain it. Born, raised and educated in a county which has been for the last twenty-five years in a hopeless Democratic minority, his democracy is clean cut, but liberal, progressive, courageous, fair and honest, and his views well defined and established, and no policy of mere expediency will ever turn him from his progressive but sincere and straightforward political principles.

A Cheap and Simple Remedy for Rhumatism.

A remedy for rhumatism which is both effectual and inexpensive is something which will be sure to earn for its discoverer the gratitude of mankind. The Canada Medical Record is authority for the statement that Dr. Wood, Professor of Chemistry in the medical department of Bishop's College, Montreal, reports a number of cases in which acute articular rheumatism was cured by fasting, usually from four to eight days. In no case was it necessary to fast more than ten days. Less positive results were obtained in cases of chronic rhumatism. The patients were allowed to drink freely of cold water, or lemonade in moderate quantities if they preferred. No medicines were given. Dr. Wood says that from the quick and almost invariably good results obtained by simple abstinence from food in more than forty cases in his own practice, he is inclined to believe that rhumatism is, after all, only a phase of indigestion, to be cured by giving complete and continued rest to all the viscera.

Three Fine Young Men.

A proud man was Mr. Abel Leonard—proud of his house and everything in it, proud of his elegant and accomplished daughter, proud of his long established business as a merchant.

Abel Leonard has been heard to boast that he had in his counting house the three finest young men in the city.

There was his own son Charley—he was certainly a fine young man, and his father was more than a little proud of him.

Then there was Evan Jones, the head book-keeper. Certainly Mr. Evan Jones was a fine young man.

Thirdly, a sort of head clerk and general manager, who made himself felt everywhere, and of whom even his employer was half inclined to stand in awe—there was Walter Sterne, with an expression of self-contained firmness about his full, solid looking lips that forbade any one denying that Walter Sterne was a very fine young man.

Three very fine young men were these, and undoubtedly Abel Leonard was justified in being proud of them; but the time had come, in the natural course of human events, when the old gentleman must necessarily be puzzled.

For forty years he had no partner in business, and for half that time he had accustomed himself to look upon his daughter Belle as a girl; but now two important facts were slowly dawning upon him. One was that he must speedily assign the charge of his business to younger and more active management; and the other was, that two of his very fine young men were rivaling each other in well direct efforts to establish even a nearer connection with himself than that of partner in business.

Abel Leonard had always pretended to keep a sharp eye after his books and balances; but of late years this had been little more than a pretence, until now that he seriously contemplated a change in his arrangement; he once more made a practical reality of his former examinations. No one but himself knew this, however, for Abel Leonard was not a talkative man.

Perhaps the old gentleman was not as quick at figures as he had once been and there were some accounts that puzzled him sadly. At all events he went over them again and again.

Still he called no one to his assistance though, as Charley was cashier, Evan Jones head book-keeper, and it was Walter Sterne's duty to go over things after them, he could very easily have had everything explained. To be sure Walter had been absent for two or three days just before the worst of the puzzle came. That night Abel Leonard went home with a clouded brow, and a good deal less pride than usual in his heavy step.

"There can be no doubt of it—no doubt of it whatever; there's a deficit of eight hundred in the cash account, and it was well covered up too; false additions, and what not; but they could not deceive old Abel. I wonder how long this thing has been going on?"

And then, as if somebody whispered to him there came the thought of Walter Sterne's bank account, so very large for a young man with his salary and expenses.

The next day, Abel Leonard sent down word that he was ill, and did not make his appearance on that or the day following, so that the three fine young men had it all their own way. The second evening Walter Sterne came up to the house to make one of his frequent calls. He was received as usual, made a good report of the business, but he seemed to have some thing heavy on his mind.

After the talk with the old gentleman, there followed a very interesting call in the parlor, and never before had Belle Leonard seemed so subdued in her manner or so sweetly engaging. To such an extent did her manner and the half pleading expression of her face work upon the already pretty well formed determination of her young friend, that the secret, which for a long time had been only half a secret, forced its way to its lips in a rush of earnest and eloquent avowal.

Belle bowed her face upon her hands for a moment, and then raised it, pale as a marble, but as firm.

"Mr. Sterne must give time for consideration. If he will call again to morrow evening I will give him his an swer."

Walter's fellow clerk was destined to receive a very similiar reply to a very similar question, only that Evan was put off somewhat indefinitely.

Still later that same evening, two very fine young men were walking down Regent street, when one said to another:

"Evan, I can't go to the old gentleman for more money just now—have you any to spare?

"Not a penny. You know how unlucky we've been of late."

"Can't you raise some?"

"Don't think I can. You know I've done a good deal for you already," said Evan.

"Yes; but that will be all right when you marry Belle."

"Yes; you must help me then replied Evan.

"Why don't you propose?"

"I did that very thing this evening."

"You don't say so! What luck!"

"Good, I should think; only she has put me off a week," added Evan.

"Oh, that's nothing. You couldn't have expected an answer off hand."

"Not from so proud a girl as Belle Leonard. Still, you can help me."

"I will. Don't be afraid; I'm not anxious for Walter Sterne as a brother in-law, I assure you,"

"Ha, ha! don't you worry yourself about that."

And so they separated; but the next morning, no sooner did Evan Jones reach the warehouse; than Walter called him aside for a private consultation. Whatever was its nature, even the countenance of Walter Sterne was unable to conceal an expression af astonishment and consternation.

"But why did you not tell me at once?" he asked.

"I new your cast iron ways," replied Evan, 'and I was afraid you would tell the old gentleman, and that wouldn't do, you know."

Walter Sterne was unusually busy with the accounts that day, and in the afternoon late, Abel Leonard came down in his carriage. He tumbled the books over, as usual but had little to say, and he really looked ill when he started for home.

The ride was not a long one, but it seemed to have shaken all the pride out of the fat little merchant. As he entered the hall he was met by Belle.

"Father?"

"The very worst, Belle?"

"How do you mean?"

"The additions and entries are corrected, and the cash is all straight again."

"But how is that the worst?"

"The corrections are all in Walter Stern's own hand. He has been alarmed in someway, and has put the money back to save himself."

"Oh father, isn't it terrible?"

"Indeed it is, Belle. And I loved that young man almost like a son. I'd have trusted him with all I was worth."

And to tell the truth, both father and daughter were thoroughly miserable. Belle especially looked forward with a nervous horror to the fast approaching hour for Walter's call.

At last the expected feet were on the doorstep, and never had he looked so near the beau ideal of a "fine young man" in eyes that already swollen with tears, looked out at him, through the curtains. There was even a look of pride and elation on Walter's face as he entered the parlor, but his countenance fell as he cast his on the face that came forward to meet him.

"Miss Leonard——"

"Mr. Sterne——"

And for a few minutes neither of them could say more, and Walter's heart beat almost audibly. Their joint embarrassment was changed in its nature by the entry of Abel Leonard

"Walter Sterne I will save Belle the trouble of giving you her answer. Does not your own conscience tell you what it ought to be?"

"My conscience? I cannot comprehend you!"

"Then I will say that I have examined the books. Yes, you may well turn pale, for I saw them before you made the corrections. I may also add that I have extorted an unwilling confession from Mr. Jones—not that he has done wrong in anything but his desire to shield you. It will not be necessary for you to come to the counting-house to-morrow Mr. Walter Stearne"

While the old gentleman had been speaking, Walter had been thinking with lightning speed, and he now replied, in a deep and firm, though husky voice:

"Mr. Leonard, I see now into what a snare I have fallen, but I see also that I cannot at once lift myself out of it. I will only say now, that I have been utterly honest with you, and more than honest. There is not one stain on my conduct."

And so saying, Walter strode out of the room, and out of the house, leaving a deeper impression behind than he was aware of. As for Belle she threw herself upon a sofa in the back parlor, and all but sobbed herself to sleep.

Perhaps an hour, perhaps more, passed by, when Belle was awakend by manly voices, conversing near her in low tones, in the darkness.

"No you can't Charley; that was the very money I let you have. I told him that you helped yourself to it, and he made it good to straighten the books and clear you. It was only by bad lack that the old gentleman found it out, and it's too late to help it. He'll forgive Walter in a day or so. Then, you know, it settles the other thing."

Thus far Charles had said very little that Belle could hear, but now his voice was raised a little.

"Evan Jones, I never did a mean thing in my life. Do you think I'll shield myself, or you either, at the expense of a man that would do so generous a thing as that? No, not by——"

"Hurrah for you, Charley!" cried his sister Belle, as she sprang from the sofa and threw her arms around his neck—very narrowly missing the mistake of hugging the wrong man. "I knew that Walter Stearne was not dishonest! Go this instant and bring him back here. Never mind how late it is. I'll go and tell papa at once!"

By the time she had ceased speaking there came a loud bang from the front door, as it shut behind the retreating form of Evan Jones.

Charley went, as he was bidden, and if Abel Leonard never again boasted of his "three fine young men," he had, in after year, much to say about "my son in-law, Mr. Stearne, sir."

Secrets of Fisherman.

HINTS THAT MAY OR MAY NOT HELP HIM WHO GOES FISHING.

Fishermen are superstitious and they are weatherwise. As prophets they seldom risk a prediction that will carry further than twenty-four hours. They have queer methods of discovering the approach of storms and the points from which the wind will blow, but they can be relied upon. Their theories in regard to the run of fish are not always sound.

To tell some their secrets in confidence to our discreet readers probably may do no harm. When on a Friday evening the sun goes down in a cloud, the following Sunday will be a fine day. But when the sunset is clear on a Friday evening, Sunday is sure to be a windy and bad day on the water. Of course the rule holds good for the second day after the noted sunset on any day of the week. Experience has taught most fisherman to have faith in the whims of sunsets.

Some old weather prophets who live on the seashore carefully rub their hands upon flag poles or fence rails regularly every night before going to bed. This interesting operation is performed with a view of determining the point from which the wind will blow on the following day. Flag poles and fence rails never lie; and salt water magicians consult them with as much faith as savants have in the weather bureau. When the post or fence rail is perfectly dry, the wind will be from the west. When it is wet with dew, the wind will blow from the south, and when it is slightly damp it will come from the southwest. If it is dry and cool there will be a north wind, and when it is cool and damp the wind will be from the east, and will blow hard. No particular fence rails or flag poles have a monopoly in this businesss. Any common old flag pole or fence rail can be consulted. Even a barber's pole will do, provided it is near the water, and if there is a scarcity of poles and fence rails grass can be made to do service. Now, why poles, rails or grass should announce the coming wind is something that the fisherman don't know, and to possess such knowledge they wouldn't give a clam. They are decidedly opposed to telling this secret, either to Vennor or DeVoe, for a reason based upon brotherly love. In other words, they are afraid the professors might rub all the skin from the palms of their hands and wear away all the fence rails and telegraph poles in their neighborhood.

A west or northwest wind is a good fishing wind, but, unless it behaves itself and keeps quiet it is no favorite among boatmen. It is apt to be puffy and treacherous, and to tie the man at the tiller down to to his work and keep him there.

Most people know what a shedder crab is, but few know what a "comer" is. A comer is a crab that is thinking of becoming a shedder, but has not yet quite made up his mind upon the subject. The spirit of caste or the color line exists in regard to shrimp. Shrimp with black backs are called niggers, and despised by prejudiced and foolish anglers. There are several kinds of clams. There are skimmers, hard shells, and soft shells. Skimmers are the favorite clam bait. Almost any fish will take them. Sand worms are not handsome. October is the best month for bass and blackfish. The latter always give better sport, and are much finer for table in the fall than in the summer.

Feeding Frogs for Market.

It is a pleasing sight to see George T. Bushnell, of Norwich, Conn., feed his edible frogs, which are confined in a shallow tank and kept from emaciation by artificial feeding. A frog will eat only that which moves, hence scraps of meat have to be attacheded to a string and moved in a life-like and very deceptive way. If the betrachians are neglected, cannibal like, they eat the smaller ones. Several times living mice have been put into the tank. The mouse makes a lively run for life and the frogs seem to enjoy it. With heads up and eyes twinkling, every one shows an active interest in the victim as he runs from back to back of the occupants. Finally one jumps and snaps the coveted morsel, leaving nothing in sight but the cable like tail. He then closes his eyes and sits demurely in the midst of a gazing circle, silent but satisfied. Now and then a covetous neighbor will seize the protruding tail and jerk his frogship across the tank, but he does not relax his hold. His stolid indifference to abuse suggests that he may have a motto like this somewhere: "I have the morsel, boys, and you may have the fun." He never chews his food, but absorbs just as a boy absorbs a gumdrop. About two hours after the swallowing feat he expectorates a wad of fur and bones, and winks wickedly at his neighbors, who have dined on cold cuts of stale halibut swung on a string.

DON'TS FOR THE GIRLS.—Don't run down your young lady friends in their absence; its a mighty mean trait.

Don't flirt.
Don't talk slang.
Don't put on airs.
Don't learn to be cranky.
Don't try to arrest attention.
Don't think it's pretty to be pert.
Don't make a drudge of your mother.
Don't say "no" when you mean "yes."
Don't meddle with other people's beaus.
Don't make a fright of yourself to be in the prevailing fashion.
Don't engage in picking up chance acquaintances on the street.
Don't look on every young man as a good-natured ice cream freezer.
Don't make up your mind to be sweet to everybody's brother but your own.
Don't marry a man who has no evident way of supporting you. Love and starvation are played out.
Don't lose your heart on a Darwinian specimen who parts his hair in the middle. There are plenty of men who want wives; wait patiently and you will get one.

A vigorous growth of hair is promoted and the youthful color restored by applying Parker's Hair Balsam.

Perennial Plants.

Hardy perennial plants are so little trouble, that they are too often treated with entire neglect. Beyond dividing the clumps when they have grown too large, they get but little attention. These plants ought not to bloom in the same place in the border for more than three years in succession, whether they need division or not. In autumn, or in very early spring, they should be lifted and reset in another place. Some, especially the Paeony, should always be moved in early autumn; if disturbed in spring, the bloom for that year will be lost. To have perennial plants at their best, the soil must be enriched, a point that is often overlooked. While some of these plants produce little or no seed, others bear a heavy crop. Unless one wishes to save seeds, the flower clusters should be cut away as soon as the bloom is over. This is necessary, not only for the sake of neatness in the boarders, but for the good of the plants. Seed bearing greatly exhausts the plant, and the vitality expended in producing a crop of seeds that are to go to waste, should be devoted to strengenthing the plant for next season's bloom. Those beautiful perennial Phloxes, which now rank as florists' flowers, are given to profuse seed-bearing, and are quite sure to degenerate, and produce smaller flowers and small clusters, if allowed to ripen an annual crop of seeds. Those who wish to raise hardy perennials from seeds, should recollect that the best time for sowing is as soon as the seeds are ripe. The young plants will usually become strong enough to endure the winter; if they do not, a slight covering of evergreen boughs will take them through safely. Such plants, if set out early the next spring, will usually bloom that year.—American Agriculturist.

Useful Recipes.

PEACH PYRAMID.—Cut a dozen peaches in halves, peel and take out stones, crack half the seeds and blanch the kernels; make a clear boiling syrup of one pound of white sugar, and into it put the peaches and kernels; boil very gently for ten minutes; take out half the peaches, boil the rest for ten minutes longer, and take out all the peaches and kernels; mix with the syrup left in the kettle the strained juice of three lemons and an ounce of isinglass dissolved in a little water and strained; boil up one ounce, fill a mould half full of the syrup, or jelly; let stand until "set," add part of the peaches and a little more jelly, and when this is "set" add the rest of the peaches, and fill up the mould with jelly. This makes a delicions and ornamental dessert.

TOMATO SOUP.—Always use cold water in making all soups; skim well, especially during the first hour. There is great necessity for thorough skimming, and to help the scum rise, pour in a little cold water now and then, and as the soup reaches the boiling point, skim it off. Use salt at first sparingly, and season with salt and pepper; allow one quart of soup to three or four persons. For tomato soup allow one gallon of stock made from nice fresh beef to three quarts of fresh tomatoes; remove the skin and cut out the hard centre, put through a fine sieve and add to the stock; make a paste of butter and flour, and, when the stock begins to boil, stir in a half teacup of the paste, taking care not to have it lumpy; boil twenty minutes, seasoning with salt and pepper to taste. Two quarts of the canned tomatoes will answer.

Are There Such Banks as This.

The bank cashier and two of the directors have just finished a confidential chat in the bank parlor when in walks the secretary with a newspaper in his hand and observes:

"There it is again—another cashier embezzles $30,000 and skips."

"Ah!" says the first director.

"Ah!" echoes the second.

"Ah! that reminds me," adds the cashier. "If you hadn't happened to mention it I might have forgotten it entirely. Fourteen years ago I began to rob this bank of a few dollars at a time and cover my offence by false entries."

"No!" by three in chorus.

"I have taken $13,500 up to date, and you have not missed a dollar of it. I can't restore $10 of the sum."

"Your bond!" yells the President.

"Neither signed nor dated," replies the cashier.

"We'll put you in prison!"

"And my friends will get me a pardon in six months."

"But think of the disgrace!"

"Pooh!

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1882.

Notice to Democrats.

Last day for paying taxes—Saturday, October 7th.

Last day for being naturalized—Saturday, October 7th.

Congressman Walker of Williamsport has declined a renomination.

D. W. Connolly has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the twelfth district.

Two more Star Route conspirators McDavitt and Price have been convicted in the United States district court at Washington.

Gen. Davis of the Doylestown Democrat has been nominated for Congress. He is a gentleman of culture and ability and we hope he will be elected.

Col. Henry McCormick has received the congressional nomination by the Democratic conference of the district composed of Northumberland and Dauphin counties.

Candidate Stewart claims that the vote for the Independent ticket will reach 150,000. Let Democrats see to it that not a single one of their party is included in this number.

Hon. Adam Woolever, a prominent citizen of Allentown, died last Sunday after a short illness. He was chief clerk of the House from 1875 to 1877, and in 1876 published a book called "Treasury of wit and Humor," which was well received.

James H. Hopkins, an ex-Congressman, and the man who pushed Pattison so closely for the nomination of Governor, has been nominated for Congress in one of the Pittsburg districts. He will oppose Russell Erritt, one of Cameron's most subservient hench men.

Major Phipps, the manager of the Philadelphia Almshouse, whose gross mismanagement was recently discovered, has been captured at Hamilton, Ontario, and now awaits extradition. He will get back here in time to pay his two per cent, assessment to Chairman Cooper, and vote for Beaver, if by that time he is not looking through prison bars at the penitentiary.

Hon. Thomas Marshall and George Lear, will address an Independent republican meeting, at Chambersburg on next Wednesday evening October 4. Thomas Marshall was the nominee of the Harrisburg Convention for Congressman at large and George Lear was the chairman of that Convention. It seems there are some Independents after all.

The Republican says that Tom Marshall is just the man to speak in a bad cause, and gives a sample of one of his little moral speeches. Tom has been making republican speeches for a good many years, but the organs never found out that he was not perfectly moral until he switched off the track. As to his being just the man for a bad cause we fully agree. He has been making republican speeches so long that he has got his hand in.

The Independent move is booming all over the State, while the cause of the Stalwarts is beginning to lag. The present indications are that Stewart will poll a larger vote than Beaver. At all events the election of Pattison is almost a certainty. Nothing but the indifference or treachery of Democrats can defeat him. The Democrat who votes for anybody else for Governor, or fails to vote at all, is a traitor to his party, and not fit to exercise the rights of citizenship.

President Arthur is in a worry what to do with Secretary Folger. After Folger, was nominated by the republicans of New York, through the manipulations of Jay Gould, the administration expected him to resign his position as Secretary of the treasury. Folger does not propose to resign his Secretaryship for the uncertainty of becoming Governor of New York. This will set aside President Arthur's calculations, as he expected to use Secretary Folger's resignation as a pretext and re-arrange his cabinet for political purposes.

The Wilkesbarre Union Leader, the leading Democratic paper of Luzerne county, refuses to support the ticket nominated by the county convention last week, on the ground that the nominations were obtained by unlawful means. If it has satisfactory evidence that such is the case, the Union Leader is just right in the position it takes, and will be sustained and commended by all honest people. The time has passed when party papers were expected to wink at fraud within their lines. If the Democracy expects to be entrusted with power ever again, it must show that it can and will expose and punish fraud committed by those who ask to be placed in office, and this can be done only through the medium of its party organs. The law forbids the use of money, except as provided, in all election and nominating conventions, and no honest journal can afford to permit the violation of these laws to go unnoticed, no matter where the lightning may strike. The Union Leader should not stop at this, but see to it that every offender is punished to the fullest extent of the law.

Folger, present secretary of the Treasury, was nominated for governor of New York, by the republican convention of that state last week. He is Arthur's man, and his nomination was effected by means of a forged proxy, which captured the state committee and through it the organization. There is much dissatisfaction and strong talk of bolting.

On the other hand, the Democrats have nominated Grover Cleveland and the party is united, the county Democracy, Tammany and Irving Hall each having a representation in the convention. Among the resolutions adopted is the following.

In the nomination of the Secretary of the Treasury for Governor of New York, by which, in effect, a candidate for the Chief Magistracy of the State was appointed by the President, we see a fresh and impressive proof of the dangerous power of public patronage, and urged by this alarming spectacle, protest against Federal intervention in State elections; and repeat our demand of 1881 for a reform and purification of the civil service.

Where the Democrats Stand.

FROM A SPEECH DELIVERED IN LOCK HAVEN, SEPTEMBER 12, BY M. F. ELLIOT, DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE.

The Democratic party has declared in its platform that it is in favor of protecting American industries and I say it from my heart—and by this I expect to stand—that I am in favor of such a tariff as will effect justly the employer and employee. As a Pennsylvanian I am in favor of protecting Pennsylvania's industries, not for the benefit of the manufacturer alone, but for the benefit of the laborer as well and the people in general. I don't want Simon Cameron to say, and he cannot truthfully say, that one man on the Democratic ticket is averse to protecting the industries of this State. These are my convictions; I have always expressed them and expect to retain them.

The Democratic Campaign Book.

The Democratic campaign book is very well edited, and besides a careful review of the policy of the Republican party contains material from the records of the Forty-seventh Congress relating to the responsibility of the majority in the treatment of our citizens abroad, the Hubbell assessments, corruption of the civil service, an excessive taxation and extravagant appropriations. It charges the Republicans with centralization and imperialism and the protection of monopolies, contrasting the spirit of the party with the theory of the Democratic party for a government for the people and by and for the people. The Forty-seventh Congress, says the book, though not showing upon the face of its acts a partisan legislation, exhibits to an analytical view the conflict of fundamental principles of government upon which the rival parties are arrayed. The Republican party is a business machine, ambitions to put its stamp on every citizen's private affairs. The issue is liberty, local self-government, honest civil service, protection of labor against centralization, protection of monopoly, oppressive taxation, corruption and degradation of labor. The distinctive features of the two parties are reviewed at length. The contested elections and Speaker Keifer's rulings are also fully treated.

One of the most remarkable features of the census of 1880 is to be found in the fact that out of a foreign population of 6,679,943, there were only 106,971 Frenchman. It has long been known, as a general rule, that the French are not a migrating race, nevertheless the friendship existing between France and America has always been so close and strong that it was really surprising to find our French population so limited.

NEWS ITEMS.

County fairs are in full blast all around the country.

The total number of men in the Milton car shops at present is three hundred and seventy.

Indigestion, dyspepsia, heart-burn, nausea, etc., cured by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

The news is getting out over the State that Ex-Attorney General Lear will take the stump for Stewart.

Mr. Gowen writes to a friend that he has placed about $6,000,000 of the 5 per cent., consols and hopes to be successful in placing the entire loan.

Bets are being made in Pittsburg that Stewart will poll more votes in Allegheny county than Beaver will poll.

Whether the administration is wagging Jay Gould or whether Jay Gould is wagging the administration does not fully appear. Gould knows, however.

Private advices say that Dr. J. P. Wickersham, of Lancaster city, and at present United States minister to Denmark, having sent in his resignation, will shortly sail for home. Climatic influences having an injurious effect on his health, is given as the cause of his resignation.

The combat of the Colorado cowboys north of Trinidad reads more like a story of the days of knighthood than of modern matter-of-fact life. Howard and Keeley had been driving their herds in company. Their cattle getting mixed, a dispute arose as to the ownership. They agreed to settle it by a duel between their drovers, six on each side, mounted, and fifty feet apart. At the first fire one of Keeley's men were killed and three of Howard's, the victory being thus awarded to the former. Though this combat may never be immortalized in poesy, the fight of the Howards and the Keeleys was, no doubt, as exciting to the participants as that of the Horath and the Curiath and probably the Colorado combat is quite as authentic as the classical one.

Fanny Davenport's acting seems to please the London critics, in varying degrees, but her gorgeous dresses, in a character and calling for such a display, give offence. "American ladies have a poor opinion of English taste," says Truth, "if they imagine that the jewel case and the milliner's trunk are the necessary passports to popularity in this country and to success upon the stage." Mrs. W. J. Florence gets a rebuke from the same writer: "We heard ot nothing but the dresses of Mrs. Florence. She moved about with the trunks of an empress, and in each part she played she had a change of dress for every act. The result was not encouraging, for Mrs. Florence was ridiculously overdressed. I fear that this overdressing is a constitutional defect in America; it is glaringly vulgar when imported to England. When Sarah Brenhardt visited this country, we heard far more about her wardrobe than her talent."

State Senator Stewart, Independent Republican candidate for Governor declares that he was invited to the conference held in Cameron's house in Washington last winter, when the slate for the State Convention was fixed up. The assertion that such a conference was held was strenuously denied by the Cameron men at the time, and although the slate was subsequently carried out, denials are yet being made. Senator Stewart says that Cameron offered him a place on the ticket, that of the Supreme Judgeship. Stewart is a dangerous man to Cameron, and the Senator would have been glad to have stowed him snugly away on the bench for twenty-one years. He challenges Cameron to produce the answer he received. It was a flat refusal. Tom Marshall of Pittsburg, who declined the place of Congressman at Large on Cameron's ticket, and who is now stumping for Stewart, has been joined by ex-Attorney-General Lear, who was Chairman of the Cameron convention. The movement seems to be steadly growing.

A Fatal Mistake.

HOW A BLUNDERING JUDGMENT MAY BE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE MOST SERIOUS RESULTS.

—Mr. Edwin Booth said recently that he supposed that his lungs were affected, having a persistent cough until he saw Dr. Mackenzie, of London, who found that this symptom arose from a disturbance of the liver.—N. Y. Herald.

The above item, which has been going the rounds of the press, is of no special significance other than to the personal friends of Mr. Booth, except that it brings to light a trueth of the greatest importance to the world. Few people pass through life without the affliction of a cough at some point in their career. In most cases this is considered the result of a cold or the beginning of consumption, and thousands have become terrified at this revelation and have sought by a change of air and the use of cough medicines to avert the impending disaster. It may safely be said that more than half the coughs which are afflicting the world to-day do not have their origin in the lungs but are the result of more serious troubles in other organs of the body. "Liver coughs" are exceedingly common and yet are almost wholly misunderstood. Arising from a disordered state of the liver they show their results by congesting the lungs. In fact, the efforts of the liver to throw off the disease, produce coughing even when the lungs themselves are in a healthy state.

But it is a mistake to suppose that such delicate tissues as the lungs can long remain in a healthy condition when they are being constantly agitated by coughing. Such a theory would be absurd. Consumption, which was feared at first, is certain to take place unless something is done to check the cause. This must be plain to every thoughtful mind. It stands to reason, therefore, that the only way in which "liver coughs" can be removed is by restoring the liver to health.

In this connection another fact of great importance becomes known, which can best be explained by the relation of an actual event. Mr. W——, a wealthy cattle dealer of Colorado, become greatly reduced in health and came east to Chicago for the purpose of being cured. He consulted Dr. J——, one of the leading physicians of the country on pulmonic subjects and began treatment for the cure of his lungs. But his cough increased while his strength decreased. Finally he determined to consult another physician and applied to Dr. B——. After a careful examination he was informed that his lungs was perfectly sound, while his kidneys were in a most terrible condition. He had all the apparent symptoms of consumption but he was suffering from the terrible Bright's disease. The symptoms of consumption are often the sure indications of Bright's disease.

The above truths regarding coughs have been known by the leading physicians for several years but the public have never been informed of them. They are serious facts, however, and should be understood by all, so that dangers which might otherwise prove fatal may be avoided. They clearly prove one great truth which is, that the kidneys and liver are such vital organs that their health should be constantly guarded. The distressing, hacking cough, which is often dreaded as the forerunner of consumption and the wasting strength which accompanies it, in all probability may arise from the weakened or diseased kidneys or liver, to restore which would cause returning health. How this most desirable end may be attained has long been a problem, but few people of intelligence at the present day have longer any doubts that the popular remedy known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has done more to correct, relieve and restore these organs than any other preparations ever before known. There are hundreds of instances which have occurred within the last three months where individuals have believed themselves the victims of consumption, when, in reality it was deranged kidneys and liver, which this remarkable medicine has completely cured, as witness the following statement:

BUFFALO N. Y., July 6, 1882.—I believe it to be a fact that thousands of cases of so called consumption can be successfully treated by simply using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure as directed. I was one of the "given up to die" persons—had every symptom of the last stage of consumption—bad cough of four years standing, night sweats, chills, etc., etc. A season south did no good and the fact was the case looked discouraging. I took Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and in three months I regained over twenty pounds, and my health was fully reftored.

W. C. BEACH,
Foreman Buffalo Rubber Type Foundry.

There are thousands of people in America to-day who believe they are the victims of consumption and destined to an early grave and who are trying to save themselves by the use of consumption cures but are growing worse each hour. Let all persons stop, and calmy consider whether they are not seeking to check a disease in the lungs when it is located in the kidneys and liver. Let them then treat the disease in its original stronghold and by the remedy which has been proven to be the most affective and then look for the return of health and happiness which such treatment is sure to bring.

One hundred and six oil wells were exhausted in the Cherry Grove region last week. There are now 295 in the district.

Senators Edmunds and Harrison write to Cooper that they can't come to Pennsylvania to speak for Cameron, and it is deemed unsafe to ask Blaine. With one accord they make excuses.

A number of persons were killed and many injured by a collision of two trains in the tunnel in New York city. One train had stopped and the other ran into the rear car. There was criminal negligence somewhere.

A Hungarian known as "Number Nine" was killed at Church Colliery, near Ashland, on Saturday. He was accidentally buried under a load of refuse dirt that had been dumped from the top of the bank on him.

General Beaver betrayed his constituents at Chicago because it was the wish of Don Cameron that he should do so. Will he not obey the same boss if he is elected Governor, and will not the same boss use him as a tool to secure his own re-election to the United States Senate? These are questions that the Independent voters of Pennsylvania are more or less interested in at the present time.—Wilkesbarre Record, Rep.

INVITATION.

Strangers passing through the city are cordially invited to visit the store, and make free use of its conveniences; leaving their luggage under check at any of the doors, or in the Luggage Room in the Department of Public Comfort.

Really we meant to have this important department in full operation before everybody got back from sea and mountain. It is made for strangers; and they seem to enjoy it, so far as it has got. It consists of a free Reading Room for gentlemen, a free Resting Room for ladies, free writing-facilities in both, closets, and other little conveniences; a soda and mineral-water fountain that isn't free; and a lunch-room to be added.

We make the great public welcome there, beyond the wont of any other house, so far as we know. We think it will pay us to look after Public Comfort a little, as a means of advertising. There's nothing sly or crooked about it. We want visitors to Philadelphia to have a good time, and to connect our store with it.

New things are coming, and fall trade is already begun. New things do not come all together. They come in a steady stream from now till Christmas. And they go in the same way. They have to. You may easily believe it, when you see our house full all the time, of goods and of people taking them away. It would be hardly worth speaking of so obvious a fact, but for the moral; which is: Buy when you find what you want; for tomorrow somebody else will be after it.

New things will crowd upon us now for mention every day. Only a few can get into the papers, except in the most general way. It will be fair to come for whatever you want, and expect to find it.

New foreign wraps have come. There are jersey coats, jersey ulsterettes, pelisses, and others. The writer of this hasn't even seen them. He has only heard of the flutter they are going to make.

Wonderful silks have come. But we must say more about the least of them than we have time for today.

We have neither time nor knowledge today to go into particulars. This is only an early notice that the store is filling up with goods for fall.

We need to say further to you who live at a distance that you needn't go to the city every time you want anything. We take so much pains to send you what you want, that you risk little in writing for goods. Let us know, as nearly as you can, what you want, and we will send you samples and prices, or take other means of finding out exactly what you do want.

Unless it is the intention to haul away the heaps of dirt along the gutters, it seems useless to pay men to clean the gutters out. The heaps are left until the first rain comes, when the dirt is all washed back into the gutter. This does not look like good management on the part of the street commissioner.

The mission held at Centralia last week attracted an immense number of people nightly. As the crowd was gathering one evening an alarm of fire was sounded and eight hundred people rushed pell mell towards Peiffer's Hotel. The alarm proved to be false and was raised by some parties who saw large volumes of black smoke issuing from the rear end of the house. It was caused by the lighting of a wood fire in the kitchen.

It is a long time since we have publicly called the attention of subscribers to their accounts, and we ask indulgence only for a few words now. Statements will be sent out during October, in the papers, and we hope that all who receive them will promptly give them their attention.

Jacob Weaver, Wm. Geise, John Fortner, David Hollingshead, and Agustus Hollingshead of Catawissa, and Peter Billmeyer of Bloomsburg, were arrested on Tuesday by B. F. Dallman, fish commissioner, for violating the fish laws. They were arraigned before Justice Maize, who, after hearing the evidence, discharged them all except David Hollingshead, who was fined twenty five dollars, or allowed the privilege of appearing at next term of court by entering bail. He gave bail for one hundred dollars and will have a hearing before Judge Elwell at December court.

There was considerable excitement on the street on Monday night, caused by an attack made by Frank Brewer, on another colored man from Wilkesbarre. As the latter was passing Kinports' drug store Brewer hurled a large stone at him, but missed the mark and the stone went through one of the heavy plate glass show windows. Brewer then drew a revolver and fired at his retreating foe, but missed again, when he ran down an alley and escaped. The difficulty is said to have grown out of an alleged intimacy of the Wilkesbarre party with Brewer's wife. When Frank is captured he will probably learn that he took the wrong method of redressing his injuries.

Mr. Frank N. Turner, of Rendeville, Ohio, and Miss Ada H. Eshleman, were married on Wednesday morning, September 27, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Eshleman, on East street. Mr. Frank Watson of Philadelphia, was groomsman, and Miss May Whitney of Pottsville, bridesmaid. Misses Annie and Vida Miller and two sisters of the bride, Edith and Lulu Eshleman, were flower girls. The ceremony was at ten o'clock, and shortly after the bride and groom took the train on the Reading road for Pottsville where they remained but a day and then left for their home in Rendville, Ohio. A large number of presents were received.

By the act of the 24th March, 1817, all bets on elections in this State are declared null and void. By the act of 2d July, 1830, any person making a bet on an election or offering to make such bet, forfeits three times the amount bet or offered to be bet, and all public officers and grand juries are required to commence proceedings against any person known to be guilty. It is also made the duty of election officers to reject the vote of any voter who has made a bet on the election or who is interested in such a bet, and it is made the duty of the Directors of the Poor to sue for and collect for the use of the poor of the proper district or county all moneys wagered on elections. They can recover it from either the stakeholder or the winner. See Purdon's Digest, volume 1, page 561.

Miss Bertha M. Hagenbuch of Orangeville, was married on Thursday of last week to Mr. Geo. A. Erieg of Williamsport. The Breakfast Table says:

The wedding ceremony was performed in Orangeville at 9 o'clock in the morning by Rev. Chilcoat of that place, and it was an occasion long to be happily remembered by the friends and relatives who were so fortunate as to be present. The presents were numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Erieg are now absent on their wedding tour, visiting New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities; on their return a pleasant home, furnished by the groom's father, and near their place of business on Pine street, awaits the happy couple. Miss Hagenbuch, the bride, is a charming young lady, held in high esteem by the people of her native place. Mr. Erieg, the groom, is the traveling representative of his father, John G. Erieg, the steam cracker baker, and his trade on the road proclaims the young man an energetic business hand.

Neat stoves have been purchased by the commissioners for the several offices in the court house. The old ones were too large, and not at all ornamental.

The whole amount required, fifty thousand dollars, has been subscribed for the new bridge works, here in town. All that is necessary now is for the other parties to show their ability to carry out their part of the contract which is to raise $150,000, and the new works will be an accomplished fact.

The organ recital at the Mahoning Presbyterian church, Danville, on Tuesday evening, was a rare treat to musicians. The organ is a new one presented to the church by Mr. Thomas Beaver, at a cost of $3,500, and is a noble instrument. Mr. D. D. Wood, the blind organist of St. Stephen's church, Philadelphia, was the performer, and he displyed his wonderful gifts to the best advantage. The programme consisted of selections from Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Handel, Bach, Rossini and other masters, and though rather heavy for a miscellaneous audience was greatly enjoyed by those who could comprehend it.

Sudden Death.

Sheriff Deegan, Sullivan county's candidate for State Senator, who was taken sick at the conference at Danville, died suddenly at Hughesville, Lycoming county, on the 24th while on his way home. He was sixty three years of age, and for a number of years has been prominent in the politics of Sullivan county. He was a genial gentleman, and a good citizen, and his untimely death will be mourned by a large circle of friends through the State.

Peter Herdic in Trouble Again.

Mr. Peter Herdic has been arrested at the suit of David Reid and his wife, and taken before Judge Cummin, where he gave bond in the sum of $1,500 for his appearance this week, to answer the allegation of plaintiffs and abide further order of court. It is charged that Mr. Herdic got possession of a note for $1,000 made by George Luppert in favor of Mrs. Reid, and that Mr. Herdic got the note cashed and appropriated the money to his own use.

Ripe Tomatoes in the Winter.

It may not be generally known by farmers, truck patch owners, gardeners and others, but it is nevertheless a fact, that where there are vines still full of unripened tomatoes remaining in the garden in the fall of the year when the frost comes, that if the vines are carefully pulled up by the roots and placed in the cellar or in the garret the green fruit on them will continue to ripen until it has all matured, and thus instead of a great many tomatoes remaining in the garden and going to waste, for they will not ripen in the natural manner after the season for frost has come, you may continue to have ripe tomatoes until late in the winter season. The vines should be raised before the fruit is frost bitten. The dryer the place the more favorable to the ripening process.

A Hint To Teachers.

There are innumerable cases in which the failure to learn is not the fault of the child but of the teacher who does not know how to impart information. There are many teachers who spend most of their educational efforts on making the children sit up straight refrain from talking and in other respects conduct themselves with decorum. To enter a school kept by such a teacher the impression conveyed to the mind of a reasonable beholder is that the children are posing with a view of having their photographs taken. When such a teacher carries such children through a recitation, it is as when a parrot is under training. The parrot follows with rigid exactness what it is told to say. So do the children. They receive merit marks for parrot-like recitations. In spite of this process, they sometimes manage to pick up a little knowledge.—Phila. Times.

Gas Explosion at Plymouth.

Last Monday the Dodson shaft at Plymouth was the scene of a disastrous explosion of gas by which two men, Thomas Cape, fire boss, and John Race, miner, were instantly killed, and Henry Barnes, miner, seriously and perhaps fatally burned. It seems that on Sunday night several breasts in the upper vein caved in, and next morning about 4 o'clock three more gave way. As a result of this the ventilation in that part of the mine was greatly impeded and the gas collected in considerable quantities. About 6 o'clock the fire boss entered the mine with a naked light and a fearful explosion followed, resulting as above stated. The explosion caused a further cave in, and about 10o'clock a large strip of ground in the immediate vicinity of the breaker and along the line of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad sank about three feet, while for nearly one acre on each side of the track the ground was covered with cracks and crevices, reaching on one side almost to the main street of the town. Trains were delayed considerably, and it was not until 2 o'clock P. M. that they were suffered to pass without unloading the passengers. One of the operators gave it as his opinion that there was no apprehension of further caving, as the sinking of the surface had not been gradual, but the whole space had gone down at once. The miners, however, are of a different opinion, holding that a cave in was liable to occur at any moment near the foot of the shaft. Much excitement was occasioned in the town concerning the accident, and hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the disaster, while around the breaker the men and boys employed therein collected in groups and speculated on the probable consequences. The accident is attributed to the carelessness of the fire boss.

Address as above. N. B.—No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. Oct. 28, '81-1y

Among the candidates for favor with the music loving world is the Ivers & Pond piano.

These instruments represent a lifetime of study and practical experience. Mr. Wm. H. Ivers, who has brought this piano to its acknowledged high state of perfection, is without doubt one of the most skillful and scientific piano makers in the country.

In 1847, he as a young man, entered the factory of the celebrated house of Chickering & Sons, and for twenty-five years held important positions in the various departments of that very successful house, thereby gaining a comprehensive and extended knowledge of piano making.

In 1870 he began business for himself, and the merits of his instruments were at once recognized. Wherever these Pianos have been inlroduced, they have made riends and found admirers, and have universally maintained their reputation for great durability, fine finish, tone, and other desirable qualities.

No better evidence of their merit could be given than that they have been selected for use in the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, where they are made.

That the management should purchase fifty Pianos of this make is conclusive evidence of their confidence in the instrument. Had they entertained the least particle of doubt as to the durability or perfection of the IVERS & POND PIANOS, they would have acted more cautiously and purchashd a few of these instruments for trial. But this was not the case; they were entirely satisfied that the IVERS & POND PIANOS were as nearly perfect as could be made, and having arrived at that conclusion, adopted them for use at their conservatory.

J. Saltzer of this town is agent for these pianos, and has them on exhibition at his ware rooms. From personal examination the writer is satisfied they are just what they are represented to be.

Interesting History.

The very beautiful and wondertully cheap edittion of "Greene's Large History of the English People," which is published by the Useful Knowledge Publishing Co., New York, is most deservedly finding a place in thousands of home libraries. No history is better worthy of a place in even the smallest library, and, though formerly published by the Harper's at $10, it is now easily within the reach of anyone, the prices varying in the several forms, from $1.00 in one volume, octavo, cloth binding, to $2.50 in 5 vols. Elzevir edition, half Russia binding. It also forms a part of the Cyclopedia of History which is publishing by the same house. For sale in this town at the COLUMBIAN store.

Senatorial Conference.

The Democratic conference for the 24th senatorial district, met at Danville on September 21st at 2 o'clock p. m., and organized by electing Hon. Thomas Butler president, and M. J. Phillips, of Sullivan, and R. D. Darling on, of Columbia, secretaries. W. W. Hart, of Lycoming, E. J. McHenry, of Columbia, W. H. Bortz, of Montour, and James Deegan, of Sullivan, were placed in nomination, and after taking twenty-nine ballots the conference adjourned, without making a nomination, until Friday morning at 9 o'clock, when eighty-seven ballots were taken without a nomination, and the conference adjourned to meet at Williamsport on Thursday October 5th. There are two conferees from each county, making a total of eight, so that it requires five to nominate.

It is probable that the conference would have continued in session at Danville, had not Sheriff Deegan, of Sullivan county, been taken sick, and he was anxious to return home.

Base Ball.

On last Saturday afternoon a game of base ball was played on the fair grounds between a nine from Catawissa and one from this place, resulting in a score of 7 to 9 in favor of the visiting club. At the opening of the game our boys had the field and were hindered by the wet grass. Boice, the pitcher, could not control the ball, and the batting club received their first base on called balls and made their runs on passes—the ball being thrown entirely out of the reach of the catcher. The game was well played. A return game is expected on either Friday or Saturday of next week.

The following is the score, which, if studied carefully will illustrate how well the clubs were matched.

Properties of Charcoal.

As a top dressing for a meadow or a lawn it is excellent. It is so good an absorbent of moisture and grasses that it will keep a lawn green in a drought when the undressed fields are parched and brown. As a basis for compost there is nothing superior. Every good housewife knows that if she has any tainted meat charcoal will take out its taints if anything can. A piece as big as one's fist put into the pot with boiling corned beef that has passed its prime will absorb the bad odors and restore it to sweetness if the putrefaction process has not gone too far. In like manner charcoal acts in the compost heap. An affluvia even from a dead horse, will be absorbed and stored up for the use of corn, grass or any crop to which it may be applied. As a top dressing for grass or grain it is particulary beneficial, as when the rich gases have once been extracted it is in a position to absorb more from the dews, snows and rains. Ploughed under a thick sod its absorbing power is comparatively limited. We must not omit to mention the aerating effect which fine charcoal has on stiff clay lands. It renders them friable and permeable to air and moisture—a result which can hardly be overestimated. Muck has something of the same effect, but muck does not last as does charcoal. On sandy lands charcoal does good, as it is such an absorbent of moisture that thin lands dressed with it will remain fresh when the undressed are parched. The only place where charcoal seems to exert little or no ameliorating influence is on low, cold, wet lands, and here even stable manure has comparatively little effect. —Exchange.

LIGHT SOIL FOR POTATOES.—It is generally known that light soils are best for potatoes, and it has been related frequently, what clean nice potatoes are produced where ashes have been applied to the land. We lately read of an experiment made with sawdust for potatoes. The writer says: "Last spring I divided a piece of land into two parts, one third and two-thirds respectively, which I planted with snow-flake potatoes. In one-third of the piece I put perhaps more than one quart of sawdust to the hill, placing the potatoes on the sawdust and covering well with earth. The remainder of the piece was planted without sawdust. To my surprise, when I had dug them, I found that I had obtained nearly as many bushels from the one third part which had received the sawdust as from the rest of the piece, the one-third part producing larger, smoother and more marketable potatoes from each hill than did the two-thirds part. I do not think it will have the same effect in all kinds of soil, nor do I think it will have the same effect in the same soil, every season. The Philosophy is this: Potatoes thrive best in loose, mellow soil, and in seasons not too wet. Therefore its effect can be most effectually demonstrated, and the contrast be greater if the experiment is tried in land that is apt to bake and become hard, as the sawdust will allow the potato room to grow. It doubtless will have the best effects in wet seasons, for the sawdust will absord the wet to some extent, which will cause the sawdust to rot. This will furnish the potatoes with food, which will be a substitute for manuring the hills.

Fruit-Tree Culture.

The Canadian Farmer gives the following points in reference to fruit-tree culture:

1. Instead of "trimming up" trees, according to the old fashion, to make them long legged and long-armed, trim them down so as to make them even snug and symmetrical.

2. Instead of manuring heavily in a small circle at the foot of the tree, spread the manure, if needed at all, broadcast over the whole surface, especially where the ends of the root can get it.

3. Instead of spading a small circle about the stem, cultivate the whole surface broadcast.

4. Prefer a well pulverized, clean surface in an orchard with a moderately rich soil, to heavy manuring and a surface covered with hard crust and weeds and grass.

4. Remember that it is better to set out ten trees with all the necessary care to make them live and flourish than to set out a hundred trees and have them all die from carelessness.

5. Remember that tobacco is a poison, and will kill insects rapidly if properly applied to them, and is one of the best drugs for freeing fruit trees rapidly of small vermin—and is better used in this way than to make men repulsive and disease.d

WORKING A FARM.—Mr. T. B. Terry, Hudson, Ohio, has a farm which twelve years ago was "starvation poor," and every dollar spent to bring it to its present state of fertility was first made on the land. A useful hint or two regarding his sucessful methods may be gleaned from the appended statement, which he makes to his home Farmer in reference to raising and marketing on his specialties, and the potato crop: "I had one field of potatoes last year of nearly six acres that brought me $161 per acre. The cost of manure and labor put on that lot would probably scare Gallia, but the net cash left in my pocket was more than $100 per acre. Two years ago I dug 300 bushels from a measured acre, and my entire crop averaged more than 250 bushels. We are now digging early potatoes that yield at the rate of 225 bushels per acre, although they are not more than three fourths grown. They are sold to one firm (sold in less than one minute after the first load got to market) to be delivered every day as fast as possible at 10 cents a bushel above the market price. I do not write this to brag up my crops, but to stir up these 'average' men a litte, and to show that it pays to apply manure and labor quite freely to the potato crop on my farm at least, and I do not think my farm is an exception.'

FATTENING SMALL PIGS.—Corn at seventy cents a bushel is still the cheepest fattening food for pigs; but when corn is so dear it is best to study the most economical manner of feeding; corn in the ear boilt with small potatoes, will be worthtwice as much dry as corn and raw potatoes. Indeed raw potatoes will scarcely do more than support life, and may often he injurious, being indigestible and erastic in their effects upon the bowels. Corn-meal boiled to a thick mush and mixed with skim milk and fed when nearly cold, will make the cheapest pork. A bushel of corn fed in this way has made twenty four pounds of pork. Corn-meal steeped in water is about as good as boiled whole corn, and the latter is the cheaper of the two. Pigs do not thrive well upon warm feed, and they do better with four light meals a day than with two heavy ones.

About Dreams.

A French physician, Dr. Delaunay, has just told some facts about dreams. These are embodied in a communication to the Societe De Biologie of Paris. It is well known when a person is lying down the blood flows most easily to the brain. This is way some of the ancient philosophers worked out their thoughts in bed. Certain moderate thinkers have imitated this queer method of industry. During sleep so long as the head is laid low dreams take place of coherant thoughts. There are, however, different sorts of dreams, and Dr. Delaunay's purpose in his original communication is to show that the manner of lying brings on a particular manner of dreams. Thus, according to this investigator, uneasy and disagreeable dreams accompany lying on the back. This fact is explained by the connection which is known to exist between the organs of sensation and the posterior part of the brain. The most general method of lying, perhaps, is on the right side; and this appears to be also the most natural method, for many persons object to lying upon the side of the heart, which, it has been more than once asserted, should have free action during sleep. Nevertheless Dr. Delaunay's statements hardly harmonize with this opinion. When one sleeps upon the right side, that is to say, upon the right side of the brain, one's dreams have marked and rather unpleasant characteristics. These characteristics, however, are essentially those which enter into the popular difinition of dreams. One's dreams are the apt to be illogical, absurd, childish, uncertain, incoherent, full of vivacity and exaggeration. Dreams which come from sleeping on the right side are, in short, simple deceptions. They bring to the mind very old and faint rememberances, and they are oftentimes accompanied by nightmares. Dr. Delaunay points out that sleepers frequently compose verse or rhythmical language while they are lying on the right side; this verse, thought at times correct enough is absolutely without sense. The moral faculties are absent. On the other hand, when a person slumbers on his left brain, his dreams are not only less absurd, they may also be intelligent. They are, as a rule, concerned with recent things, not with reminiscences. And, since the faculty of articulated language is found on the left side, the words uttered during such dreams are frequently comprehensible.

The Matter With the Telephone.

"I doan' know what I shall do mit dat telephone of mine," observed a citizen as he entered the headquarters of the company yesterday and sat down in a discouraged way.

"Out of order, is it?"

"Sometimes it vhas, und sometimes it vhas all right. If I go to speak mit der coal man, or der City Hall, or der butcher, it vhas all right, und I can hear every word. If somepody vhants to order my peer, I get de name shust so plain as daylight."

"And when does it fail?"

"Vhell, shust like two hours ago. A saloon man he owes me $18, und I rings him oop und calls out, 'Hello! hello! I likes dot monish to day!' Den he vhants to know who I am, und he says he can't catch der name. I tell him oafer and oafer, und by und by he calls oot dot he doan' deal in watermelons, und dot he is sorry he can't sign my betition to der Council. TO PRESERVE GRAPES.—Pick off the stems and remove all imperfeet fruit, squeeze out the pulps and put the skins in an earthern dish and the pulps in another. Put the pulps in a porcelaim kettle with water enough to cover them, and boil until thoroughly cooked. Great care will be required to keep them from scourching. Strain through a colander to remove all the seeds. For ten pounds of grapes, before they are seeded, use nine pounds of granulated sugar; put it with the strained pulps and bring to the boiling point; then put in the skins and let them boil half an hour, or until tender. When done skim out the grapes into a jar and let the juice boil five or ten minutes so as to skim thoroughly, then pour it over the skins and stir a moment or two. When cool cover with tissue paper wet with some kind of spirits, and tie up tight. Grapes thus preserved will keep in almost any climate, and are delicious.
